

Customized Honeymoon Packages – Cupid’s Travel Agent

"Marriages may be made in heaven, but Honeymoon Packages are made by us" – Sharma Tours and Travels

A cheesy tagline exhibited outside the office of a local travel agent, hoping to lure in his next client – A recently wedded couple.

He seems pretty confident of the slogan and why shouldn't he? It certainly enchanted his last five honeymooning clients. And who knows, the next one could be you!

They say love is blind, and that stands true when it comes to blindly outsourcing your dream vacation in the hands of a local vendor. Yes, he has a vested interest in planning your honeymoon – Earning the moolah to probably plan his own honeymoon.

And he can only do so by amalgamating the cheapest options currently trending in the travel industry to fit into one itinerary. All this, regardless of your inclinations and interests. Fortunately for you, with the recourse of customized honeymoon packages, you can now plan your travels the way you prefer and not how Sharmaji would want you to.

Gone are the days when honeymooning couples would succumb to a fixed itinerary set by the travel agent, just because it was tried and approved by his previous batch of clients. And you can be rest assured, each of those clients would have gone for a customized package, had they been made aware of it's worth, or probably read this blog.

Don't get your wife mad at you on the first day itself

The idea of an ideal vacation plays a different role in the minds of different people. Your spouse may want to relax on the first day of your honeymoon, but according to the itinerary, the agent has scheduled a half day excursion of the city followed by dinner at a nearby café, again selected by the agent as he could siphon off a hefty margin of profit by shelling out a small amount to the café, rather than a large sum at an eatery of your choice. Imagine your wife fuming with anger on the first day of your honeymoon. Not the start you were looking out for!

Save money by spending it smartly

Now customized honeymoon packages carry the tag of "being a tad bit expensive" and only fit for the affluent demographic. True! It is a sumptuous deal, but only because it is an agenda designed by you for you. And who better to put a price tag on your extravagance other than you. On the contrary, with a smartly planned itinerary suiting your needs, you can eliminate the unnecessary expenditure on superfluous activities and splurge that amount on holidaying the way you want.

Your own comfort is all that matters

Say you avoided that visit to that famous botanical garden, even though your friends vouched for its alluring beauty with Sharmaji promising a cheap price for it. Instead, you spent the evening on the beachside, in the comforts of a candle light dinner, resonating with the sounds of the ocean, sipping your favourite wine, exactly how your spouse had imagined the evening to run its course. Money well spent!

Having a romantic dinner on the beach or bungee jumping together, each one has their own idea of romance and so the need for a customized itinerary. And when you've exited from a chaotic saga of ceremonies, the need for peaceful rejuvenation is of prime significance.

The shared adrenaline rush, collecting those sea shells, silently gazing the sunset or just feeling the breeze in your hair, honeymoons are more than just any other holiday.
